

"I am mad to try... I am mad to try to lead you to where we live."

King: a Street Story and Response

8pm, 11th & 12th May 2005

Cardboard Citizens, the acclaimed homeless people's theatre company, present a scratch performance in reaction to influential writer John Berger's King, an anonymously published novel about homelessness and displacement, narrated by a dog. Staged in a squatted venue in East London, elements may include a live soundtrack performed by Cardboard Citizens New Music Ensemble and a film made by a dog.

Phone 020 8525 0532 after 5th May for venue details and reservations. Entry by donation.

Commissioned by artevents, producers of the London-wide season John Berger: Here Is Where We Meet, 11 April – 18 May 2005

artevents

www.johnberger.org

www.cardboardcitizens.org.uk

Lannan

BLOOMSBURY
www.bloomsbury.com

The Writing Now Foundation

"People used to be alarmed when they saw a dog running alone in the street. It reminded them of theft."

www.johnberger.org

